Employer and industry comments/current labour market

Due to a lack of identified advertised vacancies, a number of large hospitals and oncology clinics were cold canvassed for this report. Of those employers contacted who had recently recruited, 88 per cent of positions were filled within six weeks of advertising, the same fill rate when this occupation was last assessed in March 2008. Employers reported that the number of new graduates entering the workforce is more than sufficient to meet current needs.

Labour Market Outlook

Given the continued strong supply of graduates, shortages are unlikely to develop over the short term.
